Co-op Proves Value

STUDENTS of the University may still take advantage of the opportunity to enjoy one of the most elaborate social seasons in the history of the school at a greatly reduced cost by purchasing the co-op books, sales of which will soon be concluded.

The only function incorporated in the book which has already taken place is one Student Council dance, following the Citadel game. But those who purchase the books now will suffer no loss of this item since while the Student Council originally intended to hold only one or two of these dances, plans have now been completed for two or more such student dances.

With the advent of the Homecoming ball and the first Cue and Curtains production, the practical value of the co-op book to students is again shown forcibly. For instance, tickets for the Homecoming ball have been set at one dollar per person, two dollars per couple; the Homecoming ball ticket in the co-op book is for a couple admission.

While it is now too late to pay for the book under the original cash payment terms of two dollars down and two payments of two dollars each with the second and final tuition payments, it is still possible to get the book without making a six-dollar cash outlay. At the present time the books may be purchased by paying two dollars down and the balance of four dollars along with the final payment of tuition due December 1.

Welcome, Mothers!

THE HATCHET takes pleasure in again greeting the mothers of Junior College co-eds who are being made acquainted with the University tomorrow through the annual Mother's day program under the direction of Mrs. Barrows. An understanding on the part of parents of just what the student, especially the young co-ed, is involved in attending college will often go a long way in affording encouragement to the student. There is no better way of understanding what is going on here than by the parents coming down, going around the place and seeing just where their daughters are when they are "in school" and learn what they are actually doing in the way of academic activity outside the classroom. This year's program of entertainment for the mothers is intended to afford a synopsis of campus life as it actually exists. All that is needed for the mothers to take home with them a true picture is the cooperation of those called on to present their bits in the scheme of the University.

Victory

OUR hats are off to the football team which beat Tulsa Friday night in the most spectacular and best attended night game ever played in Washington. From the opening whistle Tulsa faced a fighting, determined eleven that refused to be defeated and played with superb confidence and coolness once it got a slight advantage.

The huge crowd, dubious at first, was quickly won over by the play of G. W. in the opening period. It was an interesting, exciting game that caught the crowd's fancy and held it until the end.

As one staunch supporter summed up the outcome, "It was made to order." Here's hoping the rest of the football season is just as brilliant.

JUST BETWEEN US Football Fans Discourteous

Student Points Out "Errors" of Rooters; Shades Of Good Old Debate Days Return With Oxford Encounter

By VERA VOLZ

THERE is at least one man on the campus who was not deliriously happy after Friday night. He is an undergraduate who concerns himself seriously and actively with keeping the George Washington escutcheon bright and her banners flying, and he received a serious blow at the Tulsa game. We proved then, he said, that our gridiron excellence can down a strong challenge, but also that our football stand manners are such as should bring blushes to the faces of our valiant players' nether garments.

G. W. stands are rude. This man, comparing the cheering here with that of the other colleges where he, as a student, has roared for the home team, indicts our behavior as a group on three counts. The indictments are telling.

First, only perfunctory scattered clapping greeted the entrance of the Tulsa squad to the field. Our beautifully organized Rousers registered exactly nothing in the way of hospitable greeting.

Second, while warming seats cheered hurt G. W. men who left the play, no one troubled to send out the numerous young assistant-deputies-to-the-vice-managers to find out the name of the men taken out by the opposing team, a courtesy almost always accorded.

Third, and most blatant of all, in tense moments when the Colonial quarterback was calling signals, noise in the stands was detrimental.

Says Part Time Student Should at Least Get Better Seat at Games

To the Editor of The Hatchet: FROM time to time various articles have appeared in The Hatchet in protest against the charge for student activity books, many of which have been extremely meritorious. As a rule I have had little sympathy with most of them, as such activities as are now afforded must have financial support if they are to survive. But after experiences of last year and this, I believe that some profitable changes could be made by those who are managing the collection of money for football.

A large number of the part time students are interested only in this particular sport. No facilities are offered them to participate in or see an other, with the exception of basketball. Somebody apparently figured this out and as a result evolved the present system of letting the part time student foot the bills for all the activities, at least to a large extent.

Whether students in the graduate schools should have to "ante" a mooted question anyway. These in the under-graduate school have no legitimate kick on that score, but when it comes to paying $20 a year ($16 for regular and $4 for summer school) and then reckoning what is returned for the outlay in terms of part time activity, the cost is prohibitive.

Just why are students with books, who are not interested in the cheering section, forced to use the "feigned" seats that are now provided at the end of the field? From the 10 to the 30-yard line is not so bad in the top of the grandstand but seats in this area on those "boards" are a total loss so far as seeing anything is concerned. And if we must sit on them, why can't they be jacked up about 10 feet instead of "starting at the ground level?"

The part time student's chief cause for complaint concerns the necessity of buying a reserve seat in addition to paying the regular activity fee if one desires to sit with persons not registered in the University. At the Citadel game I attended with a party of ten, three of them students who had to buy reserved seat tickets. In the future, unless some changes are made, I will take my friends somewhere else—and I think there are many others suffering similar losses who will agree with me.

Why shouldn't a student book for football alone be available at the same price—one which would entitle the holder to a reserved seat anywhere in the park? As far as I am concerned they can forget the rest of the activities and benefits, and unless we get a satisfactory seating arrangement on an equal with the public, they can forget the football games.

Instead of trying to "two-bit" a bunch of kids into the bleachers whoever does the heavy thinking in the athletic department would do well to concentrate on the cash customers among the student body. FRANK B. BRYAN, Law School.

Locked Library Annoys Student; Seeks Remedy

To the Editor of The Hatchet: IT IS an interesting study in human behavior to watch students try to enter the library by the two doors located at the rear of the room. On more than one occasion I have seen students rattle the mob only to find that the lock had jammed loose, effectively preventing their entrance. Usually only one of the doors will become so locked, but students entering by the second door make no effort to unlock the first door.

This is not only an annoyance to those trying to enter; it is also disturbing to anyone trying to study near the doors.

Why couldn't something be done about it? Why not put some kind of latch on those two rear doors? In that way the doors could be locked when so desired, but would not become locked accidentally.

This is undoubtedly of minor importance, but it is a convenience that could be easily taken care of. R. C. M.

Other Campi

Men desiring to join a fraternity this year at Syracuse University were required to turn in cards, which listed not more than four fraternities that they would consider joining, to the Interfraternity Alumni Committee.

All of the freshmen at the University of Maryland are requested to work on the student newspaper one day each week.

In order to maintain silence, a room has been set aside for those who find it necessary to study in groups at the library, at the University of California.

More than one hundred invitations to attend the first meeting this year of a Stutters Club were sent to students known to stutter, at the College of the City of New York.

Tutors, with no extra charge for their services, will be available to assist all students who are deficient in the art of written self-expression in overcoming their shortcomings, this year, at Syracuse University.

A five-dollar rebate on tuition is made to each student who receives grades of all A's at the University of California.

"The student who sleeps during class is the one who retains the greatest amount of knowledge," according to Dr. Ralph R. Winn, of Cottage City College, New York.

A tuition savings trust fund has been created by the alumni of Princeton University.

Letter to Editor on Football Spectators Echoes Our Editorial

To the Editor of The Hatchet:

THE drive undertaken by the University Administration this year to improve conditions and develop more interest in the University athletic program is commendable. The two football games already played on home ground show a better school spirit on the part of students than has been noticeable heretofore.

As a matter of suggestion, this opportunity is taken to point out an additional feature that should be worth some consideration on the part of those in charge of handling the spectators at the games.

During practically the entire game with Citadel last Friday night, a steady stream of people were allowed to range back and forth in front of the stands and field so as to constantly obstruct the vision of those sitting in the lower seats on the University side.

It would seem a much better plan to have the late-comers re-routed back of the stands to the seats at the far end of the field, instead of allowing them to mill back and forth during the entire time, trying to find seats in the already filled stands. The cheer leaders are already in charge of a large portion of the seats on the University side and could easily direct students to available seats in other sections when all of the central student seats are filled. In this way those sitting in the lower part of the stands would not find their view constantly obstructed once the game has started.

Respectfully, FRANCIS LEE.

Speeders See Movies and Are More Impressed With Traffic Accidents Than by Paying Exacting Fines.

By GEORGE Y. JARVIS

GOING to the movies, some people end up in traffic court. Last week in New York City it was the other way around. Traffic violators were invited to the movies by Magistrate William J. Farwell—movies of auto accidents. Speeding small cars were seen colliding with trucks and trains, dead passengers taken out.

Cliff drops, head-on smash-ups, and terrific sideswipes and other hair-raising were on the program, with sound effects.

A fat little lady, charged with drunken driving, shut her eyes and groaned in anguish when she saw a car go through a fence and roll end-for-end down a rocky slope.

One visible fact is worth twenty lectures. Our educational system will wake up some day, really making use of that principle.

To offer the cold statistics that 30,000 Americans were killed by autos last year may have a certain effect. To show motion pictures of half a dozen rides that ended up less luckily than the usual movie presentation of the hero's mad dash to the docks, has a more lasting effect.

GETTING back to general education, you are hereby invited to write this column a letter, as follows:

(1) Set down what you think you really learned last week in school. That is, facts and principles which will probably stick with you.

(2) Which part of this "learning" could have been taught more quickly, more painlessly, and more lastingly by motion pictures or other visual means?

FIFTEEN stories above the street, a twenty-one year old painter named Perry East dangled with one hand clutching a rope, one day last week outside an East Eleventh street apartment house, in Manhattan.

And speaking of visual education, the crowd that watched openmouthed was given a lesson in real regard for others.

Perry and another painter named Alanpi had been painting when the rope holding Alanpi's end of their scaffold slipped, and the latter unfortunately fell to his death. Perry, however, was able to seize the end of a hanging rope with his free hand, but in his other hand he held the heavy bucket of paint. To have let this fall might

Many Parties Scheduled for Hallowe'en Eve

Traditional Autumnal Atmosphere to Feature Round of Affairs

By Lee Rogers

October 31 will soon be here. The annual revelry of ghosts, goblins, and wailing spirits is universally known as Hallowe'en Eve. Hence, most of the social functions in view will have appropriate backgrounds of yellow pumpkins, black cats, and sheeted ghosts. Some of the campus organizations have planned hair-raising entertainments, guaranteed to send shivers of horror down one's spine. Then there are those who will revert to childhood tricks of "ducking for apples" to provide amusement for their guests.

One of the first Hallowe'en dances on the program is that of the Newman Club which will be held Saturday at the National Women's Country Club in Maryland. Jack Benson's orchestra will provide the music.

Formals Planned

Several of the fraternities will entertain at dances. Sigma Nu and Phi Sigma Kappa will have formal dances in the near future, the former's being planned for tomorrow evening, while the latter will be held on Saturday, November 3.

On the same evening as the Phi Sigma Kappa formal, Sigma Alpha Epsilon will be host at their annual Bal Boheme. Within the next two weeks will also come Sigma Chi's Pirate Ball.

Two other social events this current week will be the Sophomore Prom, following the game Friday night, and a dance at the Kappa Sigma House Saturday evening. Sigma Nu will have a Mardi Gras dance, Hallowe'en Eve with Le Grande's music furnishing rhythm for dancing.

Radio Parties Popular
There were also many interesting social affairs during the past week-end. Members of Phi Epsilon Pi enjoyed a hot dog party and radio dance at Jerry Ullman's home after the game Friday evening. Saturday evening Phi Sigma Kappa held an open dance at the chapter house. The Trojans supplied music for this dance. Many other fraternities had radio dances at their chapter houses on the same evening.

The main events on Sunday's social program was a reception tendered by the Library Science Club at Columbian House and an all day outing at Cobb Island for members of Acadia.

Sigma Nu Holds Initiation
Sigma Nu held a formal initiation at the house Sunday. Those initiated were Walton Norman Saunders, William Pearsall Brown, John Walker Richmond, and Kenneth Ross Jordan.

Plan Ahead For Beauty

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles by the famous beauty expert, Helena Rubinstein.)

So many girls neglect to plan ahead for beauty. They find themselves, as a consequence, ignorant of the essentials of scientific skin care; without the beauty aids they really need and should have; or the possessors of frivolous beauty preparations utterly unsuited to their skins.

It's an expensive process, too, to buy your creams of one manufacturer, your lotions from another, and your cosmetics from still a third. The simplest way to budget your beauty is to decide what treatment you will give your skin for two or three months in advance. I suggest a granular washing preparation, a rich, pasteurized face cream, an herbal skin tonic, powder, rouge, and lipstick.

Beauty preparations that are pure and effective will last from two to three months, even when purchased in small amounts. Cosmetics may last even longer. The entire budget should cost only a fraction over three dollars for that length of time or about a dollar a month. Even the smallest allowance can manage the priceless asset of good grooming at this price.

Women's Sports Meet To Take Place at Hood

The women's fall sports meet will be held at Hood College Saturday, November 17, with 450 girls from G. W. U., Hood, and Goucher College participating in various sports.

Picked teams from these schools will compete in tennis, archery, soccer, and hockey. A riding demonstration and a volley game will also be features of the program. Freshmen from G. W. U. will play one-half a game with both Goucher and Hood freshmen in hockey and soccer.

Busses will take the girls from here to Hood, leaving Building T at noon and returning after supper.

Gate & Key Will Hold Initiation at K. A. House

Gate and Key, honorary interfraternity organization, will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening at the Kappa Alpha house for the initiation of eight men. They are: Everett Woodward, Walter Sompayrac, Harold Hadley, Otto Schoenfelder, John Swayze, Floyd Sparks, J. Allen Crocker, and John Walstrom.

Press Club Scene of First Class Dance; Danzansky Leads Band

Alexander, Brewer, Sheets, Singing Football Trio, to Entertain

Inaugurating the class dances, the Sophomore hop to be held at the press club Friday night, promises to be an outstanding social event.

The ten-piece orchestra of Jack Benson, under the direction of Joe Danzansky, campus favorite, will provide music from 9:30 to 2.

Hess Social Chairman

Gerald Hess, social chairman, announces that the highlight of the evening's entertainment will be the singing trio, composed of three members of the football team, Dean Alexander, Bill Brewer, and Bill Sheets.

The hop, which will be held immediately after the G. W. Wake Forest game, is to be an informal affair. Members of both football teams will be guests of honor.

Though a sophomore function, the hop will be an open dance, featuring tickets at $1.50 a couple. Sophomores possessing cooperative books may enter on their class formal tickets. "Co-ops" and tickets will be sold at the door for those who have not already obtained them.

Officers Head Committees

The chairmen of the various committees in charge of the dance are the newly-elected officers of the sophomore class. Compton Timberlake, president, will handle the tickets. Publicity will be arranged by Ruth Brewer, vice president, and Louise Kramer, secretary of the class, is in charge of decorations. Allen Meserow, class treasurer, heads the floor committee.

Patrons and patronesses will be President and Mrs. Marvin, Dean and Mrs. Kayser, and Dean and Mrs. Johnstone. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Brewer.

Hanford Issues Call For Rifle Applicants

Girls interested in rifle should contact the Hanford Rifle Club, basement of Carcoran Hall, tomorrow at noon. Helen Hanford, woman's rifle coach, will discuss the coaching plans, match schedules, and arrangements of practice hours.

Since varsity matches begin early in December, it is urgent that as many as possible come out for this meeting, so that practice may begin immediately. Applications for assistant managerships should be sent to Jane Ficklin in Building T and should state free hours, year in University, and previous shooting experience.

Orchesis Holds Drill Tomorrow

Students Inexperienced in Dancing May Enter Try-outs

Orchesis, honorary rhythmic dancing organization, will hold its first practice of the year tonight, at 7:30 in the gymnasium. Janet Feiker, president, extends an invitation to any one interested to attend.

Orchesis plans this year include the development of a concert group with a repertoire of dances that may be presented before University organizations throughout the year.

Mrs. Ruth A. Foster, faculty adviser, declares that students do not need dancing experience to try out.

Mrs. Foster studied during the summer under Charles Weideman and Doris Humphrey in New York. Bettie Elfeldt, an alumna who has achieved considerable success in dancing, is also expected to make valuable contributions to the group.

Engineer Society To Offer Physical Metallurgy Course

Students May Attend Series of Lectures Without Cost

Students of the University may attend without cost the special lecture course on physical metallurgy being offered this year by the Washington chapter of the American Society for Metals.

The course is described as an intensive study in physical metallurgy, and consists of 16 educational lectures designed to serve as an introduction to the science of metallurgy. The lectures will be held in Corcoran Hall.

Students desiring to take this course may do so by making special arrangements with Prof. John R. Lapham, dean of the College of Engineering.

Following is the complete schedule of lectures:

1. Tuesday, October 16, 1934: Manufacture of Iron and Steel—G. A. Ellinger, National Bureau of Standards.
2. Tuesday, October 30, 1934: Fabrication—Hot and Cold Working of Steel—G. A. Ellinger, National Bureau of Standards.
3. Tuesday, November 13, 1934: Metallurgy—Equilibrium Diagrams—Professor F. L. Coonan, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
4. Tuesday, November 27, 1934: Iron-Carbon Constitutional Diagram—Professor A. J. Dornblatt, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
5. Tuesday, December 11, 1934: Heat Treatment of Iron and Steel—S. J. Rosenberg, National Bureau of Standards.
6. Tuesday, December 18, 1934: Cast Irons—Professor F. L. Coonan, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
7. Tuesday, January 8, 1935: Heat Treatment of Iron and Steel—S. J. Rosenberg, National Bureau of Standards.
8. Tuesday, January 29, 1935: Cast Irons—Professor F. L. Coonan, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
9. Tuesday, February 12, 1935: Alloy Steels—Louis Jordan, National Bureau of Standards.
10. Tuesday, February 26, 1935: Light Metal Alloys—Professor A. J. Dornblatt, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
11. Tuesday, March 12, 1935: Brasses, Bronzes and Bearing Metals—H. K. Herschman, National Bureau of Standards.
12. Tuesday, March 26, 1935: Light Metal Alloys—Professor A. J. Dornblatt, Postgraduate School, U. S. Naval Academy.
13. Tuesday, April 9, 1935: Corrosion of Metals—L. J. Waldron, National Bureau of Standards.
14. Tuesday, April 23, 1935: Examination, Testing and Inspection—W. H. Swanger, National Bureau of Standards.
15. Tuesday, May 7, 1935: Specifications; General Review—G. W. Quick, National Bureau of Standards.

$2,100 In Bank, Student Quota 75 Percent Sold Testifies to Success of Cooperative Activity Book

53 Sold at First Football Dance; $2 Down Still Buys One

A sum of $2,100 in cash lies in a bank vault today to prove that all of the Student Council can't be wrong all of the time.

It further proves that the co-operative activity book idea was at least 75 per cent o. k.

As the first of the class proms made possible under the cooperative financing plan—the Sophomore Hop—takes place this week, 350 student books, nearly three-fourths of the quota, and 25 faculty books have been sold.

Pay in Installments
A week ago at the Council co-operative dance following the Citadel football game 53 books were sold at the door.

Provision has been made at the bursar's office to allow students purchasing the co-op books now to pay $2 with the December tuition payment. Prior to October 20, purchasers could pay $2 on receipt and $2 with the November and December tuition payments.

Faculty and alumni sales have fallen far below the mark set by the Council but the sales committee believes that the time has not yet been opportune for the greatest drive in this quarter.

Of the $2,100 already pledged, $1,980 of that amount will be divided among the Troubadours, the Cue and Curtain Club, the Glee Clubs, the Homecoming Ball, and the four class proms. The balance goes to the Student Council to pay for the expense of operating the book—printing, advertising, etc.—and the two Student Council dances. The expenses of the book have been estimated as about $70 allowing $100 for the dances.

Extra Dance Added
The Council has already given one of these dances at The Willard Hotel and it was so successful that more money from the co-operative fund was required. Therefore, two more dances will probably be given allowing late purchasers of the books to get their full value on every coupon.

The Cue and Curtain Club gets the largest share of each dollar paid into the fund. Of every $6 collected from a student $1.80 goes to this group, $1 to the Glee Club, $1 to the class formal fund, $1.10 to the Homecoming Ball, and $.60 to the Troubadours.

Just because you are a member of the sophomore class, don't think that your $1 goes to that prom. Oh, no. The juniors get the lion's share of the fund and are supposed to have the biggest ball. So the success of any one class prom is not dependent upon the number in that class buying books, but the total sales.

Dividing the amount collected to date the shares would be as follows: Cue and Curtain Club, $645; Homecoming, $380; Class Proms, $350; Glee Club Concert, $350; and Troubadours, $225.

The estimated minimum requirements of these organizations as given by their heads is: Cue and Curtain, $1,500; Homecoming, $600; Class Proms, $450; Glee Club Concert, $500; and Troubadours, $500.

The plan was originated by Ted Pierson, president of the Council, to put all activities on a budget, and eliminate financial failures. The book offers a saving to students of $5.50.

Neilson, '33, Gets Counsel's Position

George Darrell Neilson, LL. B. '33 has been appointed Assistant Corporation Counsel of the District of Columbia.

In his new work, Mr. Neilson is engaged in the trial of both civil and criminal cases, representing the District of Columbia. He also will have charge of personal property tax mandamus work in the Supreme Court of the District this winter.

at the next regular meeting. This rule shall be effective only for the term of office of the present council. The ruling of the chair may be overruled in all cases arising under this rule by a three-fourths majority of the members present and voting. This motion carried without a dissenting vote.

Invite Students Here
A tentative plan for bringing 150 high school students to the University as week-end guests was introduced by President Pierson. Seeking to initiate a desire within the visitors to attend George Washington next year, the council president would ask the University and local fraternities to act as hosts to the students.

In appointing a committee to investigate the possibility of inviting two or three representatives from each of the large high schools throughout the District, Virginia, and Maryland, Pierson asked that the proposal be taken up with officials of the University and local fraternities at an early date. Those named on the committee were Ross Pope, chairman; Bill Martin, and Floyd Sparks.

Council Proposes New Club
Council approved for establishing a club for the promotion of studies in current economic, cultural, political, and social problems was asked by C. F. Keifer, Jr., who outlined plans for setting up the organization.

Keifer, in voicing his and other students' enthusiasm for founding the group, stated, "We have the support of President Marvin—he has indicated that if it fulfills its purpose he will give credit to its active members."

Raleigh Gilchrist Alpha Chi Sigma Meeting Speaker

Dr. Raleigh Gilchrist, of the Department of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of Alpha Chi Sigma, chemical fraternity, to be held at the Hamilton Hotel November 3. Dr. Gilchrist's topic will be "Chemical Affairs in Europe" and his remarks will be based on observations made by him in his recent travels in Europe.

At the meeting Saturday night in Corcoran Hall, Jack Stearns spoke to the fraternity on "Dow Metals—Cork and Bakelite."

Representative James Edward's motion for instructing Keifer to draw up a constitution for presentation before the Council was accepted, and the sponsor for the movement was asked by President Pierson to make the presentation along with set-up plans at a later date.

Following the adoption of the election committee's report on last week's election, the Council voted favorably Chairman Ross Pope's motion that elections for councilmen for the current Senior Council from the School of Engineering and the Division of Library Science be held in conjunction with those of the Freshman class.

Vandy, La. State Victors in Games Over Week End

Nodaks, Wake Forest, Also Win; Sooners, Oklahoma Bow

The "Ides of October," if there are such things, played havoc with the fond hopes of only two of the Colonial opponents that played last week. The other four of the six teams that the Buff and Blue must play came out on top, but none too decisive were these victories. There were no upsets, although in two instances the winning team was outplayed all the way, but paradoxically, outscored their opponents.

Fighting on better than even terms the Oklahoma Sooners dropped their second consecutive game, 6-0, to the mighty Cornhuskers of Nebraska. When the first half ended the Oklahomans were only 18 inches from a touchdown. In the last quarter the Cornhuskers got a break, partially blocking Steinbock's kick. Two plays through the Sooner line gained 24 yards and then Francis scored. Oklahoma, apparently just as good as last year, should be able to repeat by subduing Kansas this week.

East Conquers West. Perhaps the bright lights of Philly were too much for West Virginia Mountaineers last Friday night, but more likely it was the Warner system in full swing that brought about the 28-13 defeat by Temple. The Owls piled up four touchdowns in the third period. Although West Virginia tied Davis-Elkins last year, the Mountaineers, despite their reverses this year are much stronger than a year ago and should show the way in this game.

Per prognostications, North Dakota defeated South Dakota State. However, the Sioux had some difficulty in making the scalping as the 6-0 score would indicate. This was the fifth successive victory for the Sioux. Saturday North Dakota plays North Dakota State, which is always a sectional classic. On the strength of the Sioux defensive they should either tie or win.

Deacons Stage Comeback. The Wake Forest Deacons returned to trod the path of victory after the Furman detour last week, by defeating Presbyterian 14-6 in the feature event of the Homecoming Day at Wake Forest. The accurate passing and kicking of the Deacons was the margin of their victory over the Clergy.

A 50-yard touchdown pass from the sinewy arm of Abe Mickel in the third quarter opened up a terrific drive which led Louisiana State to defeat Arkansas, 16-0. Two complete and highly versatile Tiger teams pushed the Porkers back, finding Arkansas weaknesses.

First Victory Scored Over Tulsa

He Looks Tough and He Is!

'Golden Hurricane' Is Just a Stiff Breeze; First Win in Five Years

Goal Line Stand By Varsity Averts Tally in First Period

An alert Colonial eleven, playing heads-up football and capitalizing on the mistakes of the enemy, romped over the Golden Hurricane of Tulsa University by a score of 10-0 in an important intercollegiate grid battle under the lights at Griffith stadium last Friday evening.

Playing a waiting game, the Buff and Blue turned back almost every attempt of the Gales to employ their favorite, unorthodox style of play in which unexpected passes from surprise positions on the field and the much-dreaded "spread" formation are the principle features.

Intercept 7 Passes. Seven of the 12 passes fired from the rifle-like arm of full-back Dennis of the Tulsa team fell into the waiting arms of wide-awake Colonial men, and with one exception the spread formation plays were stopped cold. It was Rathjen's interception of one of those wild, desperate heaves midway in the fourth quarter and his subsequent jaunt over the remaining 25 yards to the goal line that definitely sealed the doom of the Oilers.

Tack Dennis. Tulsa opened fast in the initial period and came dangerously close to scoring, but the tried defense of the Colonials held for downs on the four-yard line to repulse that scoring effort. Play was even until early in the second period when

Phi Sigs Oppose Theta Delt—S. X. Winner for Title

Darkness Halts Match Between Semi-Finalists; Favorites Win

Getting a bye in the semi-final round, Phi Sigma Kappa gained the final round of the interfraternity tennis tournament. The winner of the Theta-Delta Chi-Sigma-Chi match will meet the Phi Sigs for the much-coveted title next Saturday afternoon on the Sixteenth Street Reservoir courts.

In the quarter-final matches Saturday, Theta Delta Chi defeated Theta Upsilon Omega 3-0, winning the three singles matches with ease. Sigma Chi trounced Kappa Alpha 3-1; Phi Sigma Kappa turned back Delta Tau Delta 3-1, in a match which was closely contested.

Theta Delta Not Pushed. Playing the semi-final round Sunday, with one team already in the finals, Theta Delta Chi and Sigma Chi battled throughout the afternoon but were unable to complete the match, which was called when darkness prevailed. The Theta Deltas won two of the three singles matches, and the two doubles matches were being played simultaneously, each team leading in its respective match, when play was called. The match is to be completed early in the week.

Quarter-final round: Theta Delta Chi 3; Theta Upsilon Omega 0. Kappa (T.D.X.) defeated Wainwright 6-3, 6-3; Dawson (T.D.X.) defeated Taylor

Max Rote Named Swimming Coach; Varsity Practice Begins Tomorrow

MAX ROTE

Former Captain and Star Succeeds Lyman; Meets at Shoreham

Max Rote has been appointed varsity swimming coach, succeeding Al Lyman, Max Fanington, assistant athletic director, formally announced yesterday. Captain of District A. A. U. title-winning Colonial teams for the past two years and one of the outstanding sprint swimmers of Washington, Rote led Buff and Blue splashes in spectacular fashion. In his college career he was never defeated in a meet in his specialties, the 50 and 100-yard dashes.

Rote Experienced. Although comparatively young, Rote is an old hand at the swimming business and he is calculated to keep the natators in good trim. Lyman, coach of the team for six years, had too much of his time taken by law business to give the job justice.

After a week's practice Rote

Fall Net Tourney Drawing to Close

Joe Dial First to Reach Semi-Finals; Howard Is Sensation to Date

The Fall Tennis Tourney is progressing with a great deal of speed, some of the entrants having reached the semi-finals.

Joe Dial became the first seeded player to reach the semi-finals, by taking Jack Trimbull in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1.

To date Pierre Howard has proved the sensation of the tourney and has beaten his opponents with ease. His next match is with Morris Stolar.

Harold Arp gained the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 6-2 win over Harry Feldman and meets the Ivan-Edward Milt Mitchell winner.

Harry Kay had his hands full in disposing of Wilbur Langtry 6-3, 3-6, 7-5. He opposes the Howard-Stolar winner.

O'Brien, Frosh End Newcomer to Game

Tommy O'Brien came to G. W. from Woodliff, N. J., for the double purpose of acquiring higher education and playing basketball for the Buff and Blue.

Tommy, who is a freshman in the school of government, was a two-letter man at Union Hill high school in Woodliff but did not play ball. He lettered in basketball and baseball.

However, destiny in the form of Jean Sexton, freshman football coach, intervened and out of the mixture of Jean Sexton and destiny came Tommy O'Brien, a regular end on the frosh eleven.

Tommy is 18 years old and weighs 170 pounds. He is six feet tall and typically Irish.
